SUMMER ONLINE PROGRAM 2021

S1. Introduction to Evolutionary Biology

Mondays 11:00 - 12:30 pm (3 classes)

June 14, 21, 28

Controversial at its beginning, the theory of evolution is one of those overarching principles that tie together every living creature. This 3-session course will explore the theory from its origin to current understanding, the history of life and some amazing adaptations that organisms have evolved to ensure their success, including working with and in spite of other species. We will consider current challenges such as COVID-19 and climate change through evolutionary lens.

ZOOM LINK: Available on website to paid and registered members

CLASS LIMIT: 95

INSTRUCTOR: Martha Gach is Education Manager and Conservation Coordinator at Mass Audubon's Broad Meadow Brook in Worcester and teaches climate change at Worcester State University. Her PhD in Ecology and Evolutionary Biology (University of Michigan) allows her to profess about evolution and shapes her world perspective.

OPTIONAL READING: On the Origin of Species is available in many editions, with many ISBNs including audio books. Recommended version, ISBN: 0674060172. The Voyage of the Beagle, ISBN 1619492814, Stephen Jay Gould's essays are available as collections in books, rarely as a single essay. If only reading one essay, The Panda's Thumb essay is found on pages 19-25: http://s-f-walker.org.uk/pubsebooks/pdfs/Gould_Stephen_Jay_The_Panda%27s_Thumb.pdf. The entire volume of The Panda's Thumb (31 essays) is available in hard copy, ISBN: 0393300234.

S2. America in the Gilded Age

Mondays & Wednesdays 1:00 - 2:30 pm

June 14, 16, 21, 23, 28

Profound and deepening economic inequalities. Widespread state violence and racial terrorism against ethnic minorities. Immigration restrictions based on xenophobia and fear. Activist movements for liberty and justice for all. America in the Gilded Age has a great deal to tell us about America 2021.

ZOOM LINK: Available on website to paid and registered members

CLASS LIMIT: 95

INSTRUCTOR: Ben Railton is Professor of English Studies and American Studies at Fitchburg State University. He is the author of five books, most recently We the People: The 500-Year Battle over Who is an American. He writes a daily American Studies blog and the biweekly "Considering History" column for the Saturday Evening Post online.

NO REQUIRED BOOKS

S3. The Oresteia

Mondays 3:00 - 4:30 pm

June 14, 21, 28 and July 5, 12

Although none of his extant plays are based on either the Iliad or the Odyssey, Aeschylus said that they were all "slices from the great banquet of Homer," and this claim is nowhere more evident than in the Oresteia, the trilogy which dramatizes fateful episodes in the lives of Agamemnon, Clytaemestra, Cassandra, Orestes and Electra. As if that were not enough, the drama also celebrates the origin of democratic institutions in the city-state of Athens. We will read all three plays in this essential masterpiece of dramatic poetry.

ZOOM LINK: Available on website to paid and registered members

CLASS LIMIT: 95

INSTRUCTORS: Lillian Corti has a degree in Italian and French from Brooklyn College and a doctorate in Comparative Literature at the City University of New York. She taught Italian at the Foreign Language Institute in New York and taught literature in translation at Tulsa University, the University of Alaska Fairbanks and in Macerata, Italy for a Study Abroad program.

OPTIONAL BOOK: Aristotle, On Poetry and Poetics, trans. Grube, Bobbs-Merrill, New York, 1958.

S4. Comedy of the Sexes

Tuesdays 1:00 - 2:30 pm

June 15, 22, 29 July 6, 13

Stage Comedy has long depended on sex for laughs, whether in the realm of the vulgar or of the romantic. Over the centuries the formulas have not changed so much as have our perceptions of “what’s funny.” Here we will study three plays that trace the arc from ancient Greece to Broadway, studying Aristophanes’ Lysistrata, G.B. Shaw’s Pygmalion, and Sarah Ruhl’s The Clean House.

ZOOM LINK: Available on website to paid and registered members

CLASS LIMIT: 95

INSTRUCTOR: Helen Whall After finishing her Ph.D. at Yale University, Helen joined the faculty at The College of the Holy Cross in Worcester, MA. There she taught Shakespeare and the Renaissance as well as modern drama. Since retiring in 2017, Helen has offered several courses for WISE.

READING: Instructor will provide required edition of Lysistrata for reading assignments.

REQUIRED BOOKS: Any edition of G.B. Shaw’s Pygmalion, and Sarah Ruhl’s The Clean House.

S5. Great Female Artists and their Music

Tuesdays & Thursdays 3:00 – 4:30 pm

June 15, 17, 22, 24, 29

Women have made great strides in recent years in breaking the glass ceiling. While there is still a long way to go, we now have a female Vice President, and women are gaining more and more acceptance as “equals” in many other endeavors. In noting their progress, it seems appropriate to recognize them for their great contributions to popular music. This course will highlight many of the great women song writers and performers working today or in the recent past. They will include Barbra Streisand, Dionne Warwick, Judy Garland, Joni Mitchell, Natalie Merchant, Sarah McLachlan, Dusty Springfield, Linda Ronstadt, Carly Simon, Carole King and many others. During the course, we will discuss their backgrounds and history and hear much of their music.

ZOOM LINK: Available on website to paid and registered members

CLASS LIMIT: 95

INSTRUCTOR: Joseph Corn spent most of his professional career working as an engineer. He has also taught in the NYC school system, Springfield Technical Community College, Penn State University and worked as a technical instructor for Moore Products. Joe, a former WISE President, has taught several music and technology courses for WISE.

NO REQUIRED BOOKS

S6. The Painters of the Hudson River School

Wednesdays 9:00 - 10:30 am

June 16, 23, 30 and July 7, 14

Beginning around 1825, American artists began to pay tribute to their native landscapes. We’ll explore the earliest American landscapes as they transition to the style we know as the Hudson River School.

The works include Thomas Cole, Asher B. Durand, and John Frederick Church. From the mountains to sea, we will also see the Luminist landscapes of John Frederick Kensett, Fitz Henry Lane, and Martin Heade. Later, Hudson River School painters such as Albert Bierstadt and Thomas Moran will head westward.

ZOOM LINK: Available on website to paid and registered members

CLASS LIMIT: 95

INSTRUCTOR: Martha Chiarchiaro received her Master's degree in the History of Art from Williams College and teaches a variety of art history courses at WISE and other local organizations. She enjoys delivering courses related to specific periods and artists that provide a more in-depth look at the life and times of the people who are part of the exploration.

NO REQUIRED BOOKS

S7. Presidential Pardon Power: History, Practice and Proposals for Reform

Wednesday 3:00 - 4:30 pm (3 classes)

June 16, 23, 30

This 3-day course will examine the history and constitutional basis for the presidential pardon power, the nature and limits of the pardon power, how presidents have generally exercised the power, and proposals for reform of the pardon power in the wake of President Trump's use of the power. Among other topics, we will explore the underlying theory of the pardon power, what if any checks exist on abuses of the power, and whether proposed legislative reforms would be likely to survive challenges in the courts.

ZOOM LINK: Available on website to paid and registered members

CLASS LIMIT: 95

INSTRUCTOR: John S. Ross III holds degrees from Yale University and the University of Virginia School of Law and served as Adjunct Professor of Law at Washington & Lee University. He has taught several courses for WISE on constitutional law topics.

NO REQUIRED BOOKS

S8. Poetry Writing Workshop

Thursdays 11:00 - 12:30 pm

June 17, 24, and July 1, 8, 15

When our minds are empty of ideas, a prompt can open the door to otherwise unknown thoughts. Prompts are used to jumpstart writing into new territory or could trigger a memory. Prior to each class, a prompt with an example poem will be provided. There will also be a backup prompt in case the first is not working. Poems will be read and discussed during class.

ZOOM LINK: Available on website to paid and registered members

CLASS LIMIT: 95

INSTRUCTOR: Eve Rifkah earned her MFA in 2002 from Vermont College of Fine Arts. She has taught at WPI. She is the author of three published books on historical poetry and is published in many journals. She is a founder of Poetry Oasis, a non-profit venue for local and international poets, and founder and editor of Diner, a literary journal from 2001-2007.
